Environment Rating Scales provides a unique service. They are the sole provider of the Early Childhood Environment Rating Scale (ECERS) tool that is widely used to measure program quality in early childhood classrooms (K3, K4, and KS). As such, they are the only vendor to provide reliability training for the ECERS to ensure that we are collecting reliable and valid data on our early childhood programs. A consultant who is a master coder with Environment Rating Scales will provide four full days of training and support as we begin our ECERS observations in MPS early childhood classrooms this fall. The consultant will co-code in classrooms with three MPS staff members from Early Childhood, and at the end of the four days, if our codes are within 85% accuracy with the consultant's codes, then we will be deemed reliable "anchors" for other observers in our district and we can provide detailed support and assistance to those other trainers to ensure reliability of the data we collect with the ECERS. In fall 2023, Riveredge Nature Center will be launching the Riveredge Environmental Club (REC) to increase middle school youths' interest in - and access to - nature and environmental education. Limited access to natural spaces often inhibit Milwaukee youth from learning about the environment in the real world. People of color are underrepresented in environmental fields highlighting one of the generational impacts of environmental inequity in our community. REC youth will learn to question the world around them and explore local issues of environmental injustice in their community while analyzing paths to a better environmental future. Our REC educators will increase students' access to both urban and wild natural spaces. Through this program, we provide place-based conservation and environmental education tools to foster a new generation committed to environmental stewardship and empowered to pursue a career in the environmental field.
