Leading Math: Developing Instructional Leaders for Accelerating Mathematics Learning in PreK–5

Abstract

The Leading Math project is a collaboration of the Milwaukee Public Schools (MPS) and the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee (UWM) to develop the capacity of principals for leading and accelerating student achievement in early childhood and elementary school mathematics. The project supports a culture of instructional leadership for mathematics within and across district schools by developing a core group of principals and teacher leaders with the “leadership content knowledge” and abilities to enact “content-focused leadership behaviors” specific to mathematics learning, equity, and teaching.

Goal 1. Ambitious Instruction: Deepen principal knowledge of ambitious mathematics instruction, Wisconsin mathematics standards, critical math content, and developmental learning trajectories.

Goal 2. Instructional Leadership: Empower principals as instructional leaders for mathematics who lead schools with inclusive, equitable, and identity-building math learning environments.

Goal 3. Accelerate Learning: Prepare school leaders to accelerate mathematics learning through equitable-access to standards-aligned, grade-level instruction in mathematics.

Leadership teams from 20 schools engage in sustained efforts to accelerate student learning in mathematics. Teams include the principal, a classroom teacher of mathematics, and a district math coach. The teams attend a two-day summer institute in 2023, meet monthly throughout the 2023-2024 school year, and attend the state mathematics conference.

Unique to the project is a strong emphasis on leadership for early mathematics, beginning with a focus on three- and four-year-old kindergarten programs, and considering the continuity and rigor of mathematics learning across grades. The team members will establish a common knowledge base of mathematics equity, learning, and learning and deepen their understanding of ambitious mathematics instruction. The teams will plan and enact school-based math leadership behaviors each month in the following three areas:

- Observations of mathematics teaching and learning (including classroom walk-throughs).
- Analysis of children’s mathematical understanding, identities, and agency.
- Conversations with teachers focused on ambitious mathematics curriculum and instruction.

The professional learning will be facilitated by a collaborative team of university faculty and district staff. Leadership teams will study the state mathematics standards and develop clear understanding of what constitutes grade-level learning in specific math-content domains (i.e., CC, OA, NBT, NF). Teams will be tasked with collecting and analyzing evidence of student learning on specific mathematics performance assessments and prioritizing content targets for their schools. The district math coaches will support the implementation of the mathematics leadership behaviors at their assigned schools.
